ESL BINGO

Before you play

For regular bingo, students will need to know the numbers to 100.

For ESL bingo students will need to know both cardinal and ordinal* numbers (first, second...) plus east, west and money amounts.

You will need

- a) 15-30 bingo chips for each student. Use plastic bingo chips from your local dollar store or a bag of dried kidney beans.
- b) one game board or more per student (copied on legal-size paper and cut in half). There are 23 different game boards. Consider giving upper students two boards OR if you are playing regular bingo, give students both a regular bingo board and a written number bingo board from our Number Workbook: Bingo Plus! (Available for $2 as a PDF from our website.)

How to Play

1. Give each student a board and pile of bingo chips.
2. Put the call pieces for the game you are playing (regular or ESL Bingo) in a cup or bag. Pick out a call piece and read it out, for example: "B24" or "Streets: West 60th". As you read the call pieces, arrange them in columns so it will be easier to check the winning combination later.
3. If students have the item you call out, they should cover it with a bingo chip.
4. When a student has a complete row or column, he/she should say "Bingo". Have them read out the winning numbers and check them with yours. If they are correct, announce that he/she is the winner and have everyone applaud the winner.
5. Have student change boards and play another round.

Variations:

1. L. High 1 and up: let the caller be the person who won the previous game.
2. For a longer game, make the winning combination a column and a row.
3. For higher level classes, instead of reading the dates, say the holiday name: for example, "Christmas Eve" instead of December 24th.

TEACHING NUMBERS and PRICES

Numbers 0 to 10

1. Chain Counts: Have each student in turn say one number. Then do in random order, having the student you point at give the next number.
2. Pair Counts: Students take turns saying the numbers with their partner. (S1 says "one", S2 says 'two', S1 says 'three', and so on.

For Pre-Lit/Lit use our laminated Literacy Writing Boards for numbers.

3. Countdowns: Do the same as in #1 & 2, but in reverse order.
4. What is your phone number?
 - a) Question Chain: Ask several students, "What is your phone number?" Then elicit and choral the question. (Hold up one finger for each word of the question.) Next you ask S1. S1 answers. You say, "Ask Bob." S1 asks Bob and Bob answers. Bob then asks the next student you indicate and so on. Then have students ask their partners.
 - b) Mixer: Students ask 4 or 5 students for their phone number and write their name and answer. Have them use, "Pardon me?" and "Could you repeat that?"
 - c) Dictation: You say the phone number and students write.

Numbers to 20

1. Do chain counts and pair counts (as # 1 to 3 above).
2. Pronunciation:
 - a) Choral by starting in the middle of the word, for example: i, fi, five.
 - b) Have the students write. Bad pronunciation may just be bad spelling. A student who says "threeteen" may be spelling it "threeteen" (a spelling error) or "thirteen" (a pronunciation error). See Success in Teaching Pronunciation to Levels 1 & 2.
4. Easy Math Problems*: Model. Place the deck face down. S1 picks up the first card and reads the problem, for example: three and four, without showing S2 the card. S2 answers. You can also have S1 ask, "How do you spell it?"

 Available in our Number & Money Wizard kit, Number Workbook, Banking for Lit & L. 1 and in the money and number unit in Success in Pronunciation for L. 1 & 2.*

Numbers to 100

1. Do chain counts and pair counts by ones, twos, threes, fours and fives. (For example, counting by threes is: 3, 6, 9...) Do each one with the whole class (first in order around the room and then in random order, with the person you point at answering) and then in pairs. Try backward counts: 100, 99, 98, etc.
2. Practice the pronunciation difference between "-teen" and "-ty" endings. ("-ty" is really pronounced as "dee"!) (See Success in... book for details and student handout).
3. Do dictations.
4. Do Difficult Math Problems*

 Available in our Number & Money Wizard kit, Number Workbook, Banking for Lit & L. 1 and in the money and number unit in Success in Pronunciation for L. 1 & 2.*

Money Amounts

1. Use real coins to teach the names: make up one baggy of coins per pair: 1 nickel, 1 dime, 2 quarters, a loonie and a toonie. Say the coin name and have them hold it up. Ask for the name and how much it is worth. Have the students count how much money they have and practice asking for change: Excuse me. Do you have change for a toonie?
2. Have the students do the coin problems* in pairs (* Available in our Number & Money Wizard kit, Number Workbook, and Banking for Lit & L. 1)
3. Teach the pronunciation for money amounts using the Success in... pronunciation book handouts. (Also available in Banking for Lit & L. 1)
4. Do dictations: you say the money amount and students write.

Ordinal Numbers: Introduce with the date. Teach the pronunciation by starting in the middle of the word: ir, fir, first. Do chain counts. Use the worksheet from Success in Teaching Pronunciation.

Numeracy Materials from successintesi

- ◆ Number Workbook: Bingo Plus!
- ◆ ESL Bingo
- ◆ Number Literacy Writing Boards
- ◆ Number & Money Wizard Kit (comes with class sets of easy and difficult math problems, coin problems, laminated bills & coins, and money amounts plus instruction sheet)
- ◆ Success in Teaching Pronunciation to Levels 1 & 2 (unit on numbers and money amounts: student CD is available as free MP3 download from our website).
- ◆ Banking for Lit & L. 1 (Although many of our teacher's guide contain numeracy materials, this has the most comprehensive set of numeracy instructions and worksheets of all our books).
